Autobiography of a Plastic Bottle

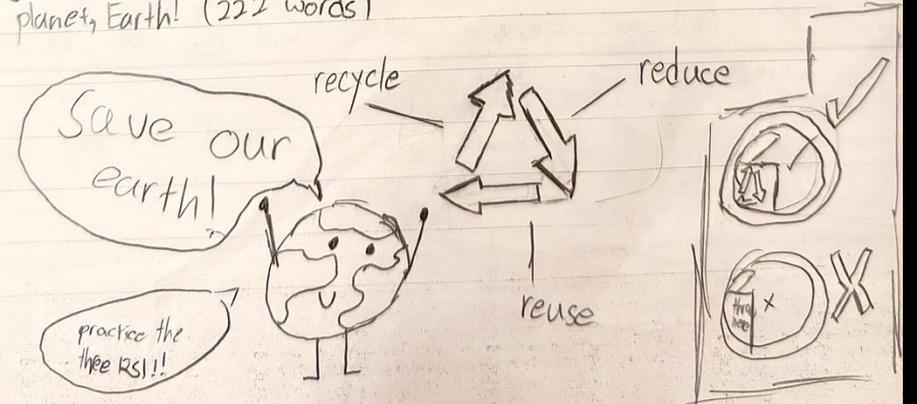

I am plastic bottle. I was made in a factory in China. After I was made, I was sent to a small shop in Singapore to store water. I met all my friends in the shop.

On a hot and dry afternoon, a boy and his sister came into the shop. They looked as tired as someone who had ran all day. They came in to look for a bottle of water. They looked at our price tags and decided to buy four of us as our prices were cheap.

When we were out of the store, we felt the blazing heat. Now we know why they looked so tired. Without hesitation, they gulped the water inside us. Then, they did not even think twice and threw us in the garbage bin.

We felt very scared and anxious. In there, I saw more of my plastic bottles! Before we could cry for help, a kind-hearted man saw us and took us to the recycling bin. After that we were took to the recycling centre. When we were there, we were made into new water bottles.

I felt happy and thankful for that man. We need to practice the three Rs, reduce, reuse and recycle to reduce pollution and global warming. This way, we can save our beloved planet, Earth! (222 words)
